

Reckless Spending and Starvation Both Seen In the Austrian Capital

(By Associated Press)
VIENNA, Feb. 28.—Vulgar display of extravagance in food and clothing is a nightly picture at the gay restaurants here, while only a few blocks away hungry and scantily clad persons are being poorly fed in community kitchens. Visitors to Vienna are shocked by this paradoxical economic condition. Others are either hardened to the contradictory sights or, in their inability to alter either extreme, can only shut their eyes to them. Crowded theatres and operas at tremendous advanced prices, concerts sold in advance, masked ball following masked ball in an endless riot and cabarets where risqué dancers would bring out the police in New York and where nothing to drink but wine is served, cafes and restaurants with never an empty table, yet a room to be had in the big hotels whose prices go up from week to week—that is one picture. On the reverse, foreign relief straining itself and demanding unceasing contributions in aid of a suffering populace.

In Austria it is the custom on New Year's eve to bring squealing suckling pigs to public dining rooms and the red ribbon with which they are decorated is distributed in bits to guests as talismans for the coming year. The newspapers report that in one fashionable resort a woman seized the pig and bathed it in a cooler full of wine. Other women caught the original idea and imitated it to the cost of many bottles. That restaurant, incidentally, has had its license suspended for constant violation of the food and dining regulations.

Viennese claim that in all these resorts where display and expenditure of the most vulgar kind are ev-identical not one real Austrian can be found, that they have not the money. They say they are supported by the horde of profiteers of every race and every nationality that infest and infect the city.

The authorities and thoughtful Austrians acknowledge that this superficial froth of extravagance and display is doing great harm to the city and the country. Casual observers who spend a few days in the inner city, visit these gorgeous resorts and see the high-class restaurants crowded at every meal, tea dances in the afternoon, exceptionally well dressed men and women and the display of furs and jewels and articles of luxury in the shop windows probably unexcelled in any capital, are hard to convince that beneath this veneer lies widespread privation and in certain strata actual bitter suffering.

Some 400,000 children are being fed one nourishing meal a day by American charity. Through American aid the hospitals are being refurnished with long absent necessities. Nearly 200,000 Austrian children are charity guests in other countries. Indeed, the charity of all non-suffering peoples is being extended bountifully to this country regardless of creed or race, and all investigators who dig deeply into conditions acknowledge it is needed. But not infrequently the visitor, especially the American, when he is told this, gazes on the evidence of wealth and well-being about him and remarks that it might be well to spend some of this money at home instead of demanding aid from other lands. One answer is that this phase of Vienna life brings money in and keeps it circulating. Another is that the temperament of a people must be considered.

IGNORANCE OF DOCTRINE HALTS ORGANIZATION

(By Associated Press)
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 28.—Misunderstanding and ignorance of the real policy of the United States concerning the Monroe Doctrine is the greatest difficulty in the way of organizing a Pan-American league, said Dr. Baltazar Brum, president of Uruguay, in an interview with newspaper correspondents of North America a few days ago.

"Uruguay and various other American countries understand the real policy at Washington," he said, "but some of the other nations show an evidence of distrust of the real intention of the United States concerning Central and South America.

"There are tendencies in some of these countries to pursue a counter-policy, which has taken expression by the suggestion of forming a purely Latin-American league."

Dr. Brum first proposed the organization of a Pan-American league in April last and the plan which has now come to be known as the Brum Pan-American doctrine, seems to be the subject nearest his heart. It is based upon equality of responsibility on the part of all American republics, and under it each would agree to defend any of its fellow members of the league against foreign aggression. The foundation of the proposed league would be a declaration by each nation of adherence to the Monroe doctrine which would place all on an equal and reciprocal basis in the matter of its enforcement.

When asked about a tariff then under consideration in the United States congress imposing a tax on wool, hides, meat and other products produced in South America which is regarded here as virtually prohibitive, Dr. Brum said:

"We have not the right to suggest to any sovereign power as to what laws they should pass, but if they do pass laws that are inconvenient to the other American nations it obviously militates against the sentiments under which such a league as I have suggested would be formed."
